Waters Recede, Rebuilding Begins

Hey Kiddos;

Here is hoping you had a nice break for Labor Day Weekend.

As the Harvey flood waters recede, the rebuilding on the Gulf Coast can begin in earnest, with yet another hurricane barreling down on the islands in the Atlantic.

The tragic events on the Texas and Louisiana coast might fade from the headlines, but not from our attention. There is so much to do. So many resources are needed. As they always do, musicians and radio stations alike are stepping up to help, along with the Texas Music Office. There are already benefits spontaneously popping up everywhere, and more are being planned for October 8th and October 15th. I had a chat with John Dickson last week about The Texas Music Flood project, which you can check out at <https://www.texasmusicflood.org/events>. There are Flood Benefit events being planned in multiple cities. Please get involved in any and every way you can.

We are praying that Hurricane Irma drifts off to sea, though that is not likely from the present tracking. We will stand by, steadfast, to help those in need, that's who we are and that's what we do.

On to this week's chart stats. Pat Green repeats at #1 for the sixth week. Big kudos for the Turnpike Troubadours on the trifecta, as they are this week's Highest Debut, Greatest Spin Gainer, and Most Added, though they share the latter with Case Hardin. Congrats to all.

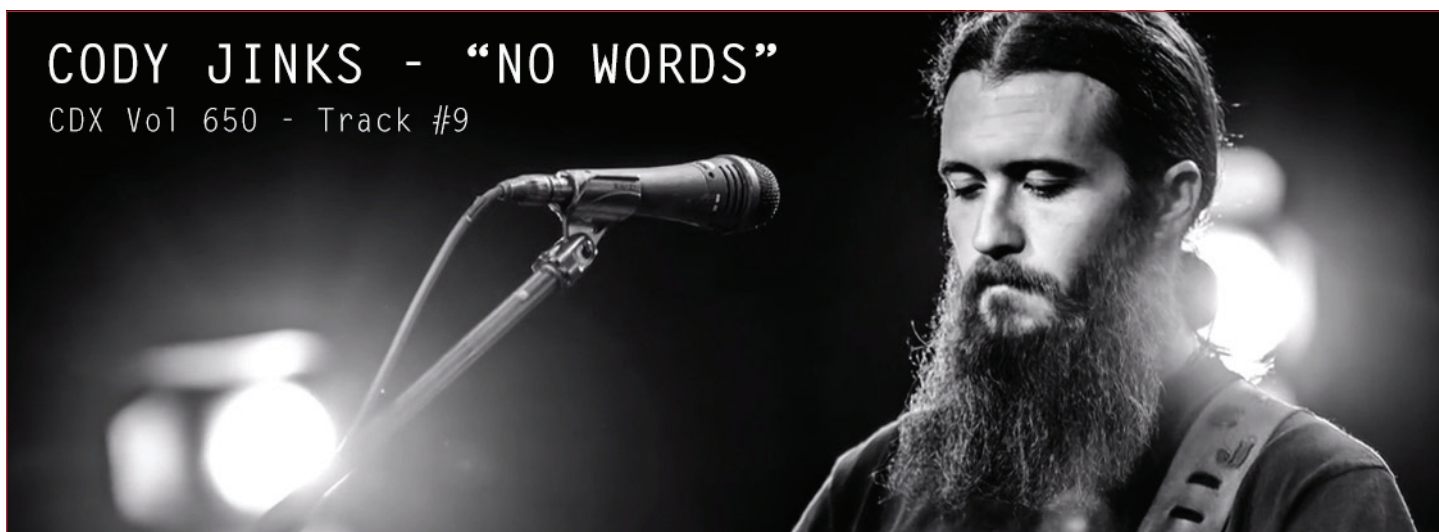

Looking forward,
Jessie Scott

Chart Recurrent Methodology

When does a song move to recurrent on the chart? It is one of the more challenging issues we encountered in creating the CDX TRACtion Texas chart system. Rather than relying on subjective editorial decisions, we've chosen to automate this process using the weekly chart data as a marker.

We strive to avoid having singles past their prime create a logjam on the chart, because that stifles upward momentum for up-and-coming singles. But we also try to ensure that singles "on the bubble" are not removed prematurely. As long-time chart watchers know, singles often take a while to establish a solid base among early believers at radio before they truly find their legs. Due to any number of reasons, the path to peak chart position rarely includes straight-line, week-over-week spin and/or chart position growth.

On a monitored airplay chart like CDX TRACtion Texas, the reality is that new singles bounce around a bit spin-wise and position-wise, particularly in the lower half of the chart. Even small spin increases and decreases can be magnified as fairly significant up-or-down chart position moves.

With this in mind, the CDX TRACtion Texas recurrent policy grades each chart position on a curve, using an algorithm that considers the chart position and spin history for that song. Newly serviced singles are allowed 20 weeks to chart before being removed from chart consideration. Once a status change is actively being considered by the algorithm, the cumulative amount of spin loss from the single's previous peak spin count is the trigger. The allowable spin loss varies as a percentage, depending on the chart position.

In addition to making sure that only singles with significant downward movement become recurrent, this methodology also benefits slow-developing singles in several ways. For instance, the allowable spin loss (as a percentage) is very generous at the lower reaches of the chart to accommodate the lower spin counts. Additionally, if a single is at risk of being moved to recurrent status with two consecutive weeks of minor spin loss, it can still return to positive spin growth the following week, which will reset the clock.
