Chart Recurrent Methodology

When does a song move to recurrent on the chart? It is one of the more challenging issues we encountered in creating the CDX TRACtion Texas chart system. Rather than relying on subjective editorial decisions, we’ve chosen to automate this process using the weekly chart data as a marker.

We strive to avoid having singles past their prime create a logjam on the chart, because that stifles upward momentum for up-and-coming singles. But we also try to ensure that singles “on the bubble” are not removed prematurely. As long-time chart watchers know, singles often take a while to establish a solid base among early believers at radio before they truly find their legs. Due to any number of reasons, the path to peak chart position rarely includes straight-line, week-over-week spin and/or chart position growth.

On a monitored airplay chart like CDX TRACtion Texas, the reality is that new singles bounce around a bit spin-wise and position-wise, particularly in the lower half of the chart. Even small spin increases and decreases can be magnified as fairly significant up-or-down chart position moves.

With this in mind, the CDX TRACtion Texas recurrent policy grades each chart position on a curve, using an algorithm that considers the chart position and spin history for that song. Newly serviced singles are allowed 20 weeks to chart before being removed from chart consideration. Once a status change is actively being considered by the algorithm, the cumulative amount of spin loss from the single’s previous peak spin count is the trigger. The allowable spin loss varies as a percentage, depending on the chart position.

In addition to making sure that only singles with significant downward movement become recurrent, this methodology also benefits slow-developing singles in several ways. For instance, the allowable spin loss (as a percentage) is very generous at the lower reaches of the chart to accommodate the lower spin counts. Additionally, if a single is at risk of being moved to recurrent status with two consecutive weeks of minor spin loss, it can still return to positive spin growth the following week, which will reset the clock.

THIS WEEK'S FEATURED ARTIST • JON STORK

While attending college at the University of Houston, on his nights off, you could most likely find JON STORK playing on a back patio or serving drinks behind a bar. That was the case until he was told to make a choice between playing music or having a steady job. The choice was an easy one, and the journey began. Stork came out of the chute strong with his first single, "Rodeo Blues", in December of 2017. Getting his band and sound right, he started playing all over Texas. In October of 2018, his second radio single, "One Night Stand" hit the charts. The rocking, in your face, tune took audiences by surprise, and left many wanting more. Throughout the greater part of 2019, Stork has stayed consistently busy touring and sharing the stage with Texas artists Aaron Watson, Josh Ward, and Parker McCollum, just to name a few. His hard work has started to pay off as he was nominated for "2019 New Male Vocalist of the Year" by Texas Regional Radio. He also released his third single, "Facts and Lies", which went to number 1 AND his first full-length album, "Radio Cowboy" with the title track also hitting number 1 on the Texas Music charts. With the Dancehalls opening up Jon is ready to hit the road and get back on stage. Make sure to check out HIS NEWEST SINGLE – ANOTHER TOWN
