Chart Recurrent Methodology

When does a song move to recurrent on the chart? It is one of the more challenging issues we encountered in creating the CDX TRACtion Texas chart system. Rather than relying on subjective editorial decisions, we’ve chosen to automate this process using the weekly chart data as a marker.

We strive to avoid having singles past their prime create a logjam on the chart, because that stifles upward momentum for up-and-coming singles. But we also try to ensure that singles “on the bubble” are not removed prematurely. As long-time chart watchers know, singles often take a while to establish a solid base among early believers at radio before they truly find their legs. Due to any number of reasons, the path to peak chart position rarely includes straight-line, week-over-week spin and/or chart position growth.

On a monitored airplay chart like CDX TRACtion Texas, the reality is that new singles bounce around a bit spin-wise and position-wise, particularly in the lower half of the chart. Even small spin increases and decreases can be magnified as fairly significant up-or-down chart position moves.

With this in mind, the CDX TRACtion Texas recurrent policy grades each chart position on a curve, using an algorithm that considers the chart position and spin history for that song. Newly serviced singles are allowed 20 weeks to chart before being removed from chart consideration. Once a status change is actively being considered by the algorithm, the cumulative amount of spin loss from the single’s previous peak spin count is the trigger. The allowable spin loss varies as a percentage, depending on the chart position.

In addition to making sure that only singles with significant downward movement become recurrent, this methodology also benefits slow-developing singles in several ways. For instance, the allowable spin loss (as a percentage) is very generous at the lower reaches of the chart to accommodate the lower spin counts. Additionally, if a single is at risk of being moved to recurrent status with two consecutive weeks of minor spin loss, it can still return to positive spin growth the following week, which will reset the clock.

THIS WEEK'S FEATURED ARTIST • JARROD BIRMINGHAM

With a childhood spent around his grandfather's fiddle, it was only a matter of time before Jarrod Birmingham traded the rodeo arena for the stage. Jarrod who calls Victoria Texas home, is a former professional bull rider who has enough pins, plates and screws in his body to make it difficult to pass an airport scanner. As he got older, he would spend more time on stage with a guitar than on the back of a bull. He has been compared to Waylon Jennings, Chris Ledoux, and Hank Williams, Jr. with a pure cowboy sound mixed with a true grit life style. He's always wanted to do a Rodeo album and feature some of the great music that he listened to as a young cowboy, and just recently accomplished his goal. His newest CD is called The Short Go. You See Jarrod never really quit riding bulls, He just got slower getting to the fence, Besides He found it was easier to pick up the guitar than to cinch up a bull rope and that's when the music took over.

This is his newest release My Heroes Have Always Been Cowboys
