Chart Recurrent Methodology

When does a song move to recurrent on the chart? It is one of the more challenging issues we encountered in creating the CDX TRACtion Texas chart system. Rather than relying on subjective editorial decisions, we’ve chosen to automate this process using the weekly chart data as a marker.

We strive to avoid having singles past their prime create a logjam on the chart, because that stifles upward momentum for up-and-coming singles. But we also try to ensure that singles “on the bubble” are not removed prematurely. As long-time chart watchers know, singles often take a while to establish a solid base among early believers at radio before they truly find their legs. Due to any number of reasons, the path to peak chart position rarely includes straight-line, week-over-week spin and/or chart position growth.

On a monitored airplay chart like CDX TRACtion Texas, the reality is that new singles bounce around a bit spin-wise and position-wise, particularly in the lower half of the chart. Even small spin increases and decreases can be magnified as fairly significant up-or-down chart position moves.

With this in mind, the CDX TRACtion Texas recurrent policy grades each chart position on a curve, using an algorithm that considers the chart position and spin history for that song. Newly serviced singles are allowed 20 weeks to chart before being removed from chart consideration. Once a status change is actively being considered by the algorithm, the cumulative amount of spin loss from the single’s previous peak spin count is the trigger. The allowable spin loss varies as a percentage, depending on the chart position.

In addition to making sure that only singles with significant downward movement become recurrent, this methodology also benefits slow-developing singles in several ways. For instance, the allowable spin loss (as a percentage) is very generous at the lower reaches of the chart to accommodate the lower spin counts. Additionally, if a single is at risk of being moved to recurrent status with two consecutive weeks of minor spin loss, it can still return to positive spin growth the following week, which will reset the clock.

Dance Time In Texas with DJ Mike (05/21/21)

THIS WEEK'S FEATURED ARTIST • DAVID ADAM BYRNES

Country Music has been all that David Adam Byrnes has ever known. David was so into playing country music he spent his final night of high school (after graduation that day), on the stage opening up for the legendary Hank Williams, Jr. He then moved to Nashville to pursue his dream. Monday through Friday, David sat in rooms pumping out the kind of songs that were groomed for the country music charts. 2013 a new chapter began when he heard Cody Johnson on the radio and knew that was "his sound," the one he left behind years ago in order to bat in the big leagues. He was soon introduced to Trent Willmon who produced Cody Johnson, and the two began a songwriting relationship that would become so much more. He packed up his bags and moved to Ft Worth where he started playing the local bars and play his style of music. That move paid off as he now has hit the top of the charts with Beer Bucket List, Neon Town, and Old School, not to mention a nomination for "New Male Vocalist of the Year" at The Texas Regional Radio Awards show. Now back again with a fun song about life... This is his newest single SIGNS
