Chart Recurrent Methodology

When does a song move to recurrent on the chart? It is one of the more challenging issues we encountered in creating the CDX TRACtion Texas chart system. Rather than relying on subjective editorial decisions, we’ve chosen to automate this process using the weekly chart data as a marker.

We strive to avoid having singles past their prime create a logjam on the chart, because that stifles upward momentum for up-and-coming singles. But we also try to ensure that singles “on the bubble” are not removed prematurely. As long-time chart watchers know, singles often take a while to establish a solid base among early believers at radio before they truly find their legs. Due to any number of reasons, the path to peak chart position rarely includes straight-line, week-over-week spin and/or chart position growth.

On a monitored airplay chart like CDX TRACtion Texas, the reality is that new singles bounce around a bit spin-wise and position-wise, particularly in the lower half of the chart. Even small spin increases and decreases can be magnified as fairly significant up-or-down chart position moves.

With this in mind, the CDX TRACtion Texas recurrent policy grades each chart position on a curve, using an algorithm that considers the chart position and spin history for that song. Newly serviced singles are allowed 20 weeks to chart before being removed from chart consideration. Once a status change is actively being considered by the algorithm, the cumulative amount of spin loss from the single’s previous peak spin count is the trigger. The allowable spin loss varies as a percentage, depending on the chart position.

In addition to making sure that only singles with significant downward movement become recurrent, this methodology also benefits slow-developing singles in several ways. For instance, the allowable spin loss (as a percentage) is very generous at the lower reaches of the chart to accommodate the lower spin counts. Additionally, if a single is at risk of being moved to recurrent status with two consecutive weeks of minor spin loss, it can still return to positive spin growth the following week, which will reset the clock.

THIS WEEK'S FEATURED ARTIST • KIN FAUX

KIN FAUX is a band of 4 talented musicians on a mission to put "western" back in country music. While they pay tribute to country legends Haggard, Jennings, and Cash, the heavy influence of the band comes from the Texas music scene (Randy Rogers, Kevin Fowler, Cody Jinks, and Wade Bowen). Rico, Jake, Ross, and Dan met up in Michigan and formed a band. As they started touring Michigan, Chicago, Pittsburgh, and the rest of the Midwest, the conversation of how their style of music was more like Texas music and they should consider going south. After a few nights with guitars, adult beverages, talk of the Texas Music scene and Taco Tuesday, they loaded up their van and moved to San Antonio. Two years later it seems that moved paid off as they are now getting to share the stage with Kevin Fowler, Randy Rogers Band, and other Texas superstars, found success on Texas Radio with their most recent Top 10 hit Honky-tonk in Heaven, and just recently named Artist of the year at the Texas Internet Music Awards show. They are now back again with their newest single that I know you're going to love. This is PLAINVIEW
