Chart Recurrent Methodology

When does a song move to recurrent on the chart? It is one of the more challenging issues we encountered in creating the CDX TRACtion Texas chart system. Rather than relying on subjective editorial decisions, we’ve chosen to automate this process using the weekly chart data as a marker.

We strive to avoid having singles past their prime create a logjam on the chart, because that stifles upward momentum for up-and-coming singles. But we also try to ensure that singles “on the bubble” are not removed prematurely. As long-time chart watchers know, singles often take a while to establish a solid base among early believers at radio before they truly find their legs. Due to any number of reasons, the path to peak chart position rarely includes straight-line, week-over-week spin and/or chart position growth.

On a monitored airplay chart like CDX TRACtion Texas, the reality is that new singles bounce around a bit spin-wise and position-wise, particularly in the lower half of the chart. Even small spin increases and decreases can be magnified as fairly significant up-or-down chart position moves.

With this in mind, the CDX TRACtion Texas recurrent policy grades each chart position on a curve, using an algorithm that considers the chart position and spin history for that song. Newly serviced singles are allowed 20 weeks to chart before being removed from chart consideration. Once a status change is actively being considered by the algorithm, the cumulative amount of spin loss from the single’s previous peak spin count is the trigger. The allowable spin loss varies as a percentage, depending on the chart position.

In addition to making sure that only singles with significant downward movement become recurrent, this methodology also benefits slow-developing singles in several ways. For instance, the allowable spin loss (as a percentage) is very generous at the lower reaches of the chart to accommodate the lower spin counts. Additionally, if a single is at risk of being moved to recurrent status with two consecutive weeks of minor spin loss, it can still return to positive spin growth the following week, which will reset the clock.

Dance Time In Texas with DJ Mike (11/05/21)

THIS WEEK'S FEATURED ARTIST • CARSON JEFFREY

At a very early age CARSON JEFFREY discovered artists such as Cross Canadian Ragweed, Ryan Bingham, and Chris Knight. He grew up learning about ranching and western way of life, spending a lot of time at his family's ranch in Dryden, Texas, as well as his hometown of Cat Spring, Texas. While in High School, most every weekend was spent going down the highway from one rodeo to another. With the highway as his guide, he picked up a guitar and started writing songs on the way to the next rodeo. It wasn't until college that he began to play acoustic shows and realized that people listened to his songs. In the summer of '19, he recorded his debut album "Muchos Sonidos" which featured his first hit single "Ranch Girl Dream". He then formed a band and hit the road once again only this time instead of riding in the rodeos, he's now performing at the rodeos. This is his newest single SOMEWHERE IN THE MIDDLE
