Chart Recurrent Methodology

When does a song move to recurrent on the chart? It is one of the more challenging issues we encountered in creating the CDX TRACtion Texas chart system. Rather than relying on subjective editorial decisions, we’ve chosen to automate this process using the weekly chart data as a marker.

We strive to avoid having singles past their prime create a logjam on the chart, because that stifles upward momentum for up-and-coming singles. But we also try to ensure that singles “on the bubble” are not removed prematurely. As long-time chart watchers know, singles often take a while to establish a solid base among early believers at radio before they truly find their legs. Due to any number of reasons, the path to peak chart position rarely includes straight-line, week-over-week spin and/or chart position growth.

On a monitored airplay chart like CDX TRACtion Texas, the reality is that new singles bounce around a bit spin-wise and position-wise, particularly in the lower half of the chart. Even small spin increases and decreases can be magnified as fairly significant up-or-down chart position moves.

With this in mind, the CDX TRACtion Texas recurrent policy grades each chart position on a curve, using an algorithm that considers the chart position and spin history for that song. Newly serviced singles are allowed 20 weeks to chart before being removed from chart consideration. Once a status change is actively being considered by the algorithm, the cumulative amount of spin loss from the single’s previous peak spin count is the trigger. The allowable spin loss varies as a percentage, depending on the chart position.

In addition to making sure that only singles with significant downward movement become recurrent, this methodology also benefits slow-developing singles in several ways. For instance, the allowable spin loss (as a percentage) is very generous at the lower reaches of the chart to accommodate the lower spin counts. Additionally, if a single is at risk of being moved to recurrent status with two consecutive weeks of minor spin loss, it can still return to positive spin growth the following week, which will reset the clock.

THIS WEEK'S FEATURED ARTIST • JESSE DANIEL

One of the fastest-rising names in traditional country music is a small-town California-native turned Texas transplant by the name of JESSE DANIEL. He got his start in music at the age of 10 when he learned to play drums and sit in with his dad's band. One day when he had to fill in at a local gig he knew the stage was where he wanted to be. After spending time on the Nashville music scene, he decided that he really wanted to be in Texas, so he made the move where he became friends with and started touring with other Texas artists like Jason Boland, Charlie Crocket, Mike and the Moon pies, and Flatland Cavalry. It was those connections that helped him with his newest Album titled BEYOND THESE WALLS which features musicians from George Strait's Ace in The Hole Band, Willie Nelson's Band, and a duet with Raul Malo of The Maverick's.

This is his newest single LOOKING BACK
