Chart Recurrent Methodology

When does a song move to recurrent on the chart? It is one of the more challenging issues we encountered in creating the CDX TRACtion Texas chart system. Rather than relying on subjective editorial decisions, we’ve chosen to automate this process using the weekly chart data as a marker.

We strive to avoid having singles past their prime create a logjam on the chart, because that stifles upward momentum for up-and-coming singles. But we also try to ensure that singles “on the bubble” are not removed prematurely. As long-time chart watchers know, singles often take a while to establish a solid base among early believers at radio before they truly find their legs. Due to any number of reasons, the path to peak chart position rarely includes straight-line, week-over-week spin and/or chart position growth.

On a monitored airplay chart like CDX TRACtion Texas, the reality is that new singles bounce around a bit spin-wise and position-wise, particularly in the lower half of the chart. Even small spin increases and decreases can be magnified as fairly significant up-or-down chart position moves.

With this in mind, the CDX TRACtion Texas recurrent policy grades each chart position on a curve, using an algorithm that considers the chart position and spin history for that song. Newly serviced singles are allowed 20 weeks to chart before being removed from chart consideration. Once a status change is actively being considered by the algorithm, the cumulative amount of spin loss from the single’s previous peak spin count is the trigger. The allowable spin loss varies as a percentage, depending on the chart position.

In addition to making sure that only singles with significant downward movement become recurrent, this methodology also benefits slow-developing singles in several ways. For instance, the allowable spin loss (as a percentage) is very generous at the lower reaches of the chart to accommodate the lower spin counts. Additionally, if a single is at risk of being moved to recurrent status with two consecutive weeks of minor spin loss, it can still return to positive spin growth the following week, which will reset the clock.

THIS WEEK'S FEATURED ARTIST • WILLIAM CLARK GREEN

William Clark Green learned to play guitar while he was in 8th grade listening to the radio stations in College Station. After learning the songs on the radio, he decided to try and write his own. While in high school he started listening to artists like Cory Morrow, Robert Earl Keen and Pat Green. In fact, his 2nd concert he ever attended was Pat Green (no relation). After seeing that show, he knew exactly what he wanted to do. He eventually enrolled at Texas Tech, but found he was more interested in music than academics. He spent nearly as much time playing open mics and acoustic gigs as he did study and recorded his first album in 2008. He has since become one of the more popular acts on the Texas Music Scene. With top hits like "She Loves Horses", "Still Think about you", and the ever-popular sing along "She Likes the Beatles" He is now influencing today's college kids that might want to pick up a guitar and sing a song. His latest project, "BAKER HOTEL" a full-length album drops March 25th and features a fun music video filmed at the historic (and haunted) Baker Hotel & Spa in Mineral Wells, TX, which can be seen on Stars Over Texas TV. His 1st single off the new album is a song about a person that gives up on a relationship too easily while their partner continues to give it their all. As WCG says If that's all you got then screw you too - Good Riddance.

It's called ALL YOU GOT

PS... Although it took him 6 years, He completed his Agriculture Economics degree at Texas Tech ☺
