Chart Recurrent Methodology

When does a song move to recurrent on the chart? It is one of the more challenging issues we encountered in creating the CDX TRACtion Texas chart system. Rather than relying on subjective editorial decisions, we’ve chosen to automate this process using the weekly chart data as a marker.

We strive to avoid having singles past their prime create a logjam on the chart, because that stifles upward momentum for up-and-coming singles. But we also try to ensure that singles “on the bubble” are not removed prematurely. As long-time chart watchers know, singles often take a while to establish a solid base among early believers at radio before they truly find their legs. Due to any number of reasons, the path to peak chart position rarely includes straight-line, week-over-week spin and/or chart position growth.

On a monitored airplay chart like CDX TRACtion Texas, the reality is that new singles bounce around a bit spin-wise and position-wise, particularly in the lower half of the chart. Even small spin increases and decreases can be magnified as fairly significant up-or-down chart position moves.

With this in mind, the CDX TRACtion Texas recurrent policy grades each chart position on a curve, using an algorithm that considers the chart position and spin history for that song. Newly serviced singles are allowed 20 weeks to chart before being removed from chart consideration. Once a status change is actively being considered by the algorithm, the cumulative amount of spin loss from the single’s previous peak spin count is the trigger. The allowable spin loss varies as a percentage, depending on the chart position.

In addition to making sure that only singles with significant downward movement become recurrent, this methodology also benefits slow-developing singles in several ways. For instance, the allowable spin loss (as a percentage) is very generous at the lower reaches of the chart to accommodate the lower spin counts. Additionally, if a single is at risk of being moved to recurrent status with two consecutive weeks of minor spin loss, it can still return to positive spin growth the following week, which will reset the clock.

Dance Time In Texas with DJ Mike (04/08/22)

THIS WEEK'S FEATURED ARTIST • ZACH NEIL

Zach Neil spent his early years working on the family farm, playing sports, and at his parent's insistence learned to play piano (which he did not enjoy). When he was 12, he begged his parents for a guitar for Christmas so that he could sing and play along with his favorite George Strait, Randy Travis, Keith Whitley songs on the radio. In high school, he formed a band with some friends and soon they were playing around his hometown. "We stunk", jokes Zach, "but had a lot of fun". After graduating high school, Zach packed his truck and hit the road to chase his dream. After entering a battle of the bands competition where Zach's band tied for first place, they started to get booked at a lot of fairs, festivals and rodeos and began to feel like maybe music was something he could do for a living. Well, it seems that his dreams of being a rising star on the Texas Music scene are starting to come true as he was nominated the 2021 Emerging Artist at the Texas Country Music Awards show last fall. This is his newest single rising up the charts, a tribute to all the cowboys, cowgirls, military and first responders that get up every day and take care of business. This is Long Live the Cowboy.
