Chart Recurrent Methodology

When does a song move to recurrent on the chart? It is one of the more challenging issues we encountered in creating the CDX TRACtion Texas chart system. Rather than relying on subjective editorial decisions, we’ve chosen to automate this process using the weekly chart data as a marker.

We strive to avoid having singles past their prime create a logjam on the chart, because that stifles upward momentum for up-and-coming singles. But we also try to ensure that singles “on the bubble” are not removed prematurely. As long-time chart watchers know, singles often take a while to establish a solid base among early believers at radio before they truly find their legs. Due to any number of reasons, the path to peak chart position rarely includes straight-line, week-over-week spin and/or chart position growth.

On a monitored airplay chart like CDX TRACtion Texas, the reality is that new singles bounce around a bit spin-wise and position-wise, particularly in the lower half of the chart. Even small spin increases and decreases can be magnified as fairly significant up-or-down chart position moves.

With this in mind, the CDX TRACtion Texas recurrent policy grades each chart position on a curve, using an algorithm that considers the chart position and spin history for that song. Newly serviced singles are allowed 20 weeks to chart before being removed from chart consideration. Once a status change is actively being considered by the algorithm, the cumulative amount of spin loss from the single’s previous peak spin count is the trigger. The allowable spin loss varies as a percentage, depending on the chart position.

In addition to making sure that only singles with significant downward movement become recurrent, this methodology also benefits slow-developing singles in several ways. For instance, the allowable spin loss (as a percentage) is very generous at the lower reaches of the chart to accommodate the lower spin counts. Additionally, if a single is at risk of being moved to recurrent status with two consecutive weeks of minor spin loss, it can still return to positive spin growth the following week, which will reset the clock.

THIS WEEK'S FEATURED ARTIST • AARON WATSON

Aaron Watson born in Amarillo Texas, grew up listening to George Jones, Merle Haggard, Willie Nelson and the gospel hymns he sang with his family in church. He played baseball at Abilene Christian University, where he would also learn to play guitar. After college, he worked various gigs around Texas before releasing his debut album, A Texas Café in 2000. As his popularity grew, he would catch the attention of a couple of Texas legends. His 2004 album The Honky Tonk Kid, was produced by Ray Benson and featured an appearance by Willie Nelson. In 2015, Aaron Watson would make history as his album The Underdog made him the first independent male artist to debut at Number One on the Billboard Top Country Albums chart. During an interview with Rolling Stones magazine, he was asked "How does a kid from West Texas sell more albums than the other hot shot artists?" His response was simply "I've got the Greatest Fans anyone could ask for". After 20 years this underdog is now a Honky Tonk Hero on the Texas Music Scene.

His latest album "Unwanted Man" has already produced 2 number one hits. His 3rd release is a song he started writing 14 years ago and he's finally ready to share his story of a dear old friend. This is The Old Man Said.
