Chart Recurrent Methodology

When does a song move to recurrent on the chart? It is one of the more challenging issues we encountered in creating the CDX TRACtion Texas chart system. Rather than relying on subjective editorial decisions, we’ve chosen to automate this process using the weekly chart data as a marker.

We strive to avoid having singles past their prime create a logjam on the chart, because that stifles upward momentum for up-and-coming singles. But we also try to ensure that singles “on the bubble” are not removed prematurely. As long-time chart watchers know, singles often take a while to establish a solid base among early believers at radio before they truly find their legs. Due to any number of reasons, the path to peak chart position rarely includes straight-line, week-over-week spin and/or chart position growth.

On a monitored airplay chart like CDX TRACtion Texas, the reality is that new singles bounce around a bit spin-wise and position-wise, particularly in the lower half of the chart. Even small spin increases and decreases can be magnified as fairly significant up-or-down chart position moves.

With this in mind, the CDX TRACtion Texas recurrent policy grades each chart position on a curve, using an algorithm that considers the chart position and spin history for that song. Newly serviced singles are allowed 20 weeks to chart before being removed from chart consideration. Once a status change is actively being considered by the algorithm, the cumulative amount of spin loss from the single’s previous peak spin count is the trigger. The allowable spin loss varies as a percentage, depending on the chart position.

In addition to making sure that only singles with significant downward movement become recurrent, this methodology also benefits slow-developing singles in several ways. For instance, the allowable spin loss (as a percentage) is very generous at the lower reaches of the chart to accommodate the lower spin counts. Additionally, if a single is at risk of being moved to recurrent status with two consecutive weeks of minor spin loss, it can still return to positive spin growth the following week, which will reset the clock.

THIS WEEK'S FEATURED ARTIST • KIN FAUX

KIN FAUX has come a long way since they made the decision to load up the van and move to Texas. They've been named the 2021 Band of the Year at the Texas Country Music Association, the 2022 New Band of the Year by Texas Regional Radio and had the 2022 TCMA Single of the Year with Wild Horses. 2023 is shaping up to be an even busier year. They will be releasing their new album, Cheaper Than the Truth on Feb. 25th, Opening for Willie Nelson April 1 at the Outlaws and Legends festival in Abilene, TX, and later this summer will be part of the Rock the Coast Texas Music Cruise in April, with Mark Wills, The Chad Cooke Band, Sunny Sweeney and more. Their newest release is a different sound for Kin Faux as they get into the emotional aspect that not every day is going to be a good day. It's not always going to be SUNNY and 72.
